

WEEK

of the Lincoln County Institute which is being held this week is proving one of the most interesting and profitable ever held by the county teachers.

Mrs. Phillips gave a comprehensive discussion on Plans in Teaching Mental Arithmetic. Mrs. Stewart lectured on Constructive Work in Arithmetic. The subject of Discipline and Management was opened by Mr. S. S. Robinson, with a splendid talk. He was followed by the instructor.

Heating, Ventilation and Lighting was discussed by Mr. Cyrus Johnson. Miss Claudia Eaton spoke on Discipline in School, and following her able talk, was a discussion as to whether children should be required to do any home study. Miss Eaton and Miss Lena Palmer preferred that little home study be required, and that children should prepare their lessons mostly under the teacher's guidance, while Mr. Robinson, T. D. Lay and others believed study at home to be essential.

The Institute opened Tuesday morning with devotional exercises by Rev. M. D. Early, pastor of the Methodist church. Mr. Early spoke most eloquently and impressively to the teachers about their work. The instructor, Mrs. Stewart, then addressed the Institute on "What a Teacher Should Get Out of the Institute." She declared that one would get out of it what he put into it, and especially urged that the teachers put joy, sociability, desire for broader conception of their duties, and inspiration into it. She closed with Prof. J. T. C. Noel's poem, "The Red Bird, which she declared to be the symbol of inspiration in its notes, 'come up, higher, higher, higher'."

Rev. Marvin Berryman representing the inspirational works of Dr. Orison Swett Marden, addressed the Institute on the value of his work. Mr. C. P. Moore representing Bowling Green Business University, made a most witty talk in the merits of that institution. Mr. Seth H. Tipton, representing Raud-McNally spoke of the achievements of Seth Sheppard, of Cook county, Ill., and incidentally told the teachers that Raud-McNally would furnish them with supplementary readers.

Mrs. H. D. Phillips spoke in favor of the Institute meeting at the court house because of its central location and made a motion to that effect, which carried unanimously. In the afternoon, the instructor, Mrs. Stewart, gave a lecture on "The Ends of Education" and outlined them as follows: Health, right conduct, ability to make a living, appreciation of the best things in life.

Prof. Roscoe Wheelton spoke most interestingly on "The Four Purposes of the Course of Study." Prof. Wilson discussed "The Organization of a Rural School With One Teacher" in a manner much appreciated by the Institute. The instructor then discussed the "Daily Progress" in the absence of Prof. Elmer Gilliland, to whom the subject had been assigned.

Wednesday's session opened with singing, "Abide With Me" and devotional exercises led by Rev. D. M. Walker, pastor of the Christian church, who made a most excellent talk to the teachers.

BIG STAKES ARE FILLED

Best Horses in State Will Be at Stanford Fair Next Month

As the 1. J. goes to press, Secretary W. P. Kincaid informs it that there is no doubt but what both the $10,000 saddle stake, and the $500 fancy harness stake of the K. P. fair will be filled. These stakes will bring together such celebrated strings of horses as P. W. Ray & Son, of Bowling Green, McCray Bros., of North Middletown, Collins & Son, of same place, Thurman & Piers, of Springfield, T. E. Baldwin, Jr., of Richmond, McElwain & Rogers, of Richmond, Edgar C. Doty, also of Richmond.

This means that there will be no better horse show in Kentucky this year than will be pulled off right here in Stanford. Besides having the best horse show in central Kentucky, the Stanford fair will have several other rings of peculiar interest to farmers, one of which is that there will be premiums amounting to $50 given away to the best Kentucky Red Berkshire hogs, a new breed that is rapidly coming to the front in central Kentucky. Another show that is attracting a great deal of attention, and one that is expected to be hotly contested, is a ring for the best milk cow, which will be shown the first day. There will be a man from the Experiment Station at Lexington, here to judge this ring. The cow will be milked and the milk tested in the ring. Competition will be free to every one, and cows will be judged by their works only, regardless of breed. These added to the fact there will be a large display of fancy work, poultry, means that if you miss the Stanford fair this year you will miss a lot.

Former Lincoln Woman Dies in West

Friends and relatives here received news early in the week of the death at Los Angeles, California, of Mrs. Mary Jones Riley, wife of O. V. Riley, who went to the western state from Lincoln, about three years ago, to make her home. Mrs. Riley was a niece of Col. Joseph Coffey, of the Veranda Hotel, and the remains will be brought here for interment. Besides her husband, Mrs. Riley is survived by five children, several of them at home, and three brothers, Jeff Jones, of Harlan and J. C. Jones and Louis Jones, of Louisville, who are here for the funeral which will take place from the Veranda Hotel as soon as the remains arrive. Mrs. Riley was a member of the Baptist church. She was raised in Lincoln and leaves many warm friends here.

Mrs. Stewart on Moonlight Schools

A delightful feature of the visit of Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart to Stanford this week as instructor of the Teachers' Institute, was her address at the court house Thursday evening on the subject of Moonlight Schools. In spite of the rain a good audience was present. Mrs. Stewart was introduced by Miss Laura Miller. Mrs. Stewart discussed the mistaken ideas which prevail over the country as to these schools, related the history of their beginning, told of the aged men and women who attended and how, after three years, she reduced illiteracy in Rowan county from 1,152 to 23. She urged that all Kentuckians join in the war against illiteracy. She declared that Lincoln county's representative in the legislature, Shelton S. Sanley, had written a valuable page in Kentucky's history by his having been the prime mover in passing the measure creating the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission, which is directing the light against adult illiteracy. The speaker pleaded for the schools to be reopened to men and women who had missed their chance in early youth. In closing she made the statement:

"The hour of a man's opportunity should be any hour in which he awakens to his need, whether that be at the age of 6 or 106."

Mrs. Stewart has done a great and wonderful thing for Kentucky in her manner of reducing illiteracy, and she will go down in history as one of the great and noble women of Kentucky.

Vigorous Campaign to Start

Plans for the ultimate redemption of Kentucky from the stigma of illiteracy will be adopted at the meeting of the State Illiteracy Commission at Frankfort, August 7. Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, chairman of the commission is working on the plan, which will call for the cooperation of every social agency she can enlist in the enterprise. Already the Kentucky Press Association, National Federation of Women's Clubs, Kentucky Educational Association and Kentucky Society of Colonial Dames have volunteered to help, and to each will be apportioned a share in the work. Commercial travelers, bankers and patriots will be asked to join in the movement. While a fairly accurate census of illiterates will be obtained and corrected by the teachers of the county, schools, bankers will be asked to take note of those who sign with their mark and tapers will be asked to make a list of illiterates committed to their charge. Schools will be conducted in the jails.

A test will be made this year in an effort to eradicate illiteracy in two counties—Campbell and Leslie—presenting the opposite extremes, urban and rural, to be found in Kentucky.

LOCAL MEN ATTEND RETAIL MERCHANTS' MEETING

Central Kentucky Business Men Given Royal Entertainment at Frankfort Early in the Week

Messrs. William Severance, W. H. Higgins and J. E. Cummings represented the retail merchants of Stanford at the big meeting of the Central Kentucky Retail Merchants' Association at Frankfort Tuesday, and report a most enjoyable day.

From the time of the fall of the gavel in the hands of Vice President W. G. Simpson, of Frankfort in the absence of President James L. Isenberger, of Harrodsburg, the Association received a hearty welcome, and enjoyed a most successful meeting and opportunity for discussion of business improving the local retail trade in Central Kentucky.

Following the address of the Mayor of a review of the past year's work was heard by Paul L. Goddard, of Harrodsburg, secretary of the association. Mr. Goddard reported great progress in the Retail Merchants' Association, both in strides towards business success and from a standpoint of new membership. He said the organization, during its short period of life, had met with great success and in the future he felt it would be one of the greatest organizations of its kind in the United States.

Will Make Him Many Votes

Senator Camden to Remain at Washington and Earn His Salary

Senator J. N. Camden, who is a candidate for the short term election, will undoubtedly make lots of friends by his announced determination to remain at Washington and attend to the business for which he is drawing his salary instead of running over Kentucky begging the people for votes.

Consultation with the president and with his colleagues have convinced the Junior Kentucky senator that the legislative situation is such that he cannot leave Washington without neglecting his official duties. The senate is considering anti-trust legislation and will have it under consideration until August 1st, at the earliest, so that Mr. Camden has decided he must leave his campaign for re-election to his friends.

I want to be of such aid to the president as I can," said Mr. Camden. He believes and I agree with him heartily, that congress should remain in session here until the trust bills are passed and then adjourn. I am a part of congress, and therefore, it is my official duty, as well as my service, to stay in Washington. It may be that I can get to Kentucky within a day or two of the primaries, but that remains to be seen and is dependent entirely on the progress of the legislation.

For some days the senator and his secretaries have been conducting his campaign for re-election by letter. Now that Mr. Camden has finally decided that he cannot return to Kentucky at all during the senatorial campaign, the letters will continue to be sent out by the thousands, and on these Mr. Camden will join his hopes of election, which he says will be the ratification of his choice by Governor McCreary.

Tight Ball Game Thursday

An interesting and close ball game was played Thursday between a nine composed chiefly of teachers attending the institute here this week and the town boys. umpire Rice called the game at the end of the ninth inning as it had begun to rain, with the score standing 9 to 9. The score was 9 to 9 at the end of the ninth inning, with the home team leading by one run. The two nines lined up as follows:

ROBINSON MAY LAND YET

Helm is Said to be Still Backing Him For Lancaster P. O.

That Capt. T. B. Robinson has a chance yet to land the postmastership at Lancaster is indicated by a dispatch from Washington on Wednesday, which said:

It is probable an appointment will be made soon to the postmastership at Lancaster, Ky. A good many months ago Representative Helm recommended Thomas B. Robinson for that office. Mr. Robinson came to Washington and on failing to secure the endorsement of Senator James became so despondent that he tried to commit suicide on the train en route home.

Since then several physicians have made affidavits that he is completely restored to health, physically and mentally, and Helm is still backing him.

Today R. H. Tomlinson, a lawyer of Lancaster, arrived to present the claims of Robt. Brown, another applicant. He did not make much headway. Senator James is leaving the matter entirely to the Postmaster General. Senator Camden is taking the position that he will have nothing to do with patronage in districts that are represented in Congress by Kentucky Democrats. As far as the patronage in Helm's district is concerned, that is a matter entirely for Helm to handle, according to Senator Camden's view. It would not be surprising therefore, if Robinson wins out, after all.

WILHITE'S FRIENDS BUSY

Louisville, Ky., July 14.—The plan to raise a fund of $14,500 by subscription to liquidate the debts of City Comptroller Samuel Wilhite, to save him from prosecution on a charge of embezzlement, has been abandoned, according to those active in the movement. It was stated that the tentative canvass has not met with an encouraging response.

It is said, however, that Wilhite's friends will continue their efforts in his behalf, along another line.

Young Hargis Still Insane

A dispatch from Jackson, Ky., this week said, Ensign E. G. Hargis, U. S. N., retired son of former State Senator Alex Hargis, of the Hargis Commercial Bank and Trust Co., has returned to his home here from Washington, where he went some time ago in an effort to have the court order declaring him insane, vacated. This petition was dismissed after a hearing before Justice Anderson, and he returned to Kentucky in order to prevent his being committed to a sanitarium at Washington. A short time ago Hargis was declared sane by a Breathitt county jury, and accordingly he cannot be confined to an institution here.

Hargis recently secured a divorce from his wife, Beatrice Hawley Hargis, daughter of Rear-Admiral Hawley, U. S. N., and the effect of the dismissed order of insanity, if granted, would have been to give him control of his retired pay allowance of $116 per month of $91 of which now goes to the support of his wife and child. Ensign Hargis' mental breakdown occurred in 1909, after service in the Philippines, which is believed to have been the cause of it, and he was for a time confined in the Government Asylum for the Insane at Washington, but a year ago was given into the custody of his father, and since that time has been residing at his home near here. Hargis has a child, four years of age, who is living with the mother in New Hampshire.

More Beer Is Being Drunk

Americans drank less whisky during the past twelve months than they did the year before, but they consumed more beer and smoked a great many more cigarettes. Reports to the internal revenue commission, showed that receipts for the fiscal year just closed totaled $84,069 less than for the previous year, and most of this decline was due to the marked falling off in taxes collected on distilled spirits. Detailed statements for the month of June are not yet available, but the first eleven months of the fiscal year there were a decrease of $3,744,857 in the income from the manufacture and sale of distilled liquor, due in the reduction of the number of licenses. Estimates on the June receipts indicated the total decline in distilled liquor tax for the 12 months will probably be $4,250,000. Receipts from tobacco taxes showed an approximate increase over last year of $2,500. This gain is due almost entirely to a phenomenal increase in the cigarette trade. The gain in receipts from fermented liquor, beer, ale and the like was about $800,000.

Mrs. Lawson's Cousin Dead

Mrs. Mary Ann Best, of Lancaster, aged about 76 years, and widow of Ebenezer Best, died Thursday morning at Crab Orchard after one week's illness of pneumonia. Mrs. Best with her grand daughter, Mrs. Blampied, went to Crab Orchard about two weeks ago and being in feeble health, she contracted pneumonia from which she never seemed able to throw off, owing to heart failure in the last few hours. She was a noble Christian lady and a devoted member of the Presbyterian church of Lancaster. Mrs. Best is survived by two sisters, Mrs. E. L. Adams, and Miss Ruth Best, of Wyoming and was a cousin of Mrs. R. K. Conn of Point Lick and Mrs. Mattie Lawson, of Stanford. Her remains were taken to her late home Thursday morning, at which place services were held Friday afternoon conducted by Rev. J. Rockwell Smith, internment took place in the Lancaster cemetery.

BREITON M. BAUFLEY — Proprietor
OF A YEAR STRICELY IN ADVANCE
Entered at the postoffice at Stanford as second class mail matter.

Only two more weeks from tomorrow until the senatorial primary will be held. To us it looks like Beckham is a certain winner. As we see it by every principle of right and justice he should be nominated. He not only measures up fully in every way to the high standard of the office but has a claim upon the democracy which no other candidate has, and that is, that he was swindled out of the election six years ago. The L. J. is heart and soul for Beckham. We have known him personally for over ten years and the more we have seen him and his work the more our attachment has grown. His enemies have charged almost every crime under the sun against him. But those who really know the man, know how false have been these accusations. We know that he is the cleanest man that has been prominent in state politics in a quarter of a century. We know how he has always stood single-minded for the best interests of the people, how utterly free he is from contaminating, sinister influences which so often seek to subtly secure control of men prominent and high in official life. Take our word for it, we know him personally and well, no democrat can stand for better things, for cleaner things, for truer men, will make a mistake by voting for Beckham. To the democrats especially of Lincoln county who believe in these things, we would earnestly urge that they vote for Beckham on August 1st.

Editor Urey Woodson, of the Owensboro Messenger, is advertising, trying to find out if there is a McCreary supporter in Daviess county. So far he has failed to find a single one. Here in Lincoln, the old War-Horse will get more votes than Stanley, and there are several other counties in this section where the same condition prevails.

Beckham Strong in Wayne

A. V. Bertram, of Wayne, who represented the Wayne-Cynthian district in the Legislature two years ago, says that Gov. Beckham has a run-away race in his county. He said the Democrats were united in their support of the ex-Governor, and that he would receive 90 per cent. of the vote cast in his county. He said that the Stanley and McCreary followers had given up. Mr. Bertram said he had been in Clinton and Cumberland counties recently, and that the same sentiment prevailed there. He said Gov. Beckham would carry both counties by an overwhelming majority.

Stafford Parker, formerly employed as electrician in Richmond, was killed there Thursday morning by a freight train.

KIDD'S STORE

The divine Shakespeare wrote substantially that man in the vanity of a little brief authority sometimes so disgusts and mortifies high heaven that the angels cry—bitterly cry. Our astrologer has calculated that when our great and good Governor James B. McCreary, our mentor, guardian and guide, fatuously invaded the Eighth to instruct us clumps whom to send to Congress instead of Harvey Helm the conjunction of Jupiter Pluvius and Aspidochelone was identical with his return to persuade the yokels that he is the one man capable and willing, (oh, so willing, as always) to be sent as counselor and adviser to Woodrow—who can easily pilot the old ship for him into suggest harbor. The comedy borders on the pathetic and pitiful. It was confidently and correctly forecast that the heavens would be overcast with distress and rent asunder for overflow of tears wrung from anguished angels.

The hour at which the flood gates would burst and the overflow begin was confidently and accurately foretold, and the gardens, the fields, the forests, all nature join in exultant acclaim to that fate which brings thanks from fatuous infliction. The drouth and superlative heat have been routed. Gloria in excelsis and to Majah Maximus.

Some of Stanley's admirers enjoyed his exhortation of Dick Knott; more were moved to sorrow that a gadfly's gad should have stamped him from that dignified, contemptuous disregard of the insect which occasion and assembly should have commanded. Veterans who are familiar with James Bothsides, bloodsweating acrobatics in keeping up with the hand wagon's devious meanderings vote him a well earned rest, though without decorations due great statesmen. When before a beggar for the peoples' preference to Beckham his one qualification urged by helpers of the Eighth was his uniformly generous contribution to hold the floaters in line. Of course he should for he put up the price.

Hon. Henry Thomas, versatile and snappy editor of Casey's "News" spent a short time last week hobnobbing with the capitalists of our town whilst the curious and critical took inventory of his large touring car.

Our school began last week with encouraging attendance, and the pupils' unanimous affection for their teacher, Miss Fannie North, assures an enthusiasm which must produce good results. Moreover, our efficient trustee, Hon. M. F. North, a alive to the maximum that "a little learning is a dangerous thing" of course none is a calamity—has proclaimed determination to enforce the compulsory attendance law. Good!

Whilst gardeners have had little call to combat weeds this season there has been a notable scarcity of the Colorado potato bug. The writer has not found a bug up to date and that he has a crop of vines can be verified. Also that he has been seen among those vines.

Irrigation is a problem which soon must concern the Kentucky trucker, and later every up-to-date farmer. How to accomplish it will be found. A Rare Old Apple Tree
On the John Adams farm of the Hiatt section, where Gill Lunce now lives, stands an apple tree which is one hundred years old and never fails to bear a full crop of the best of fruit. This tree is of the June variety, a large red apple and fine eater, but no one knows the name, as it is quite different from anything of this day. The tree is a very large one and last Sunday evening provided a most comfortable resting place for J. M. Adams, the Brothead merchant who spent several hours under the boughs of this old residenter and enjoyed the luscious fruit which came from it. Another fact about this valuable old tree that it provides in the hollow, room for four hen nests for Mrs. Lunce, who has in the last two seasons raised over 200 chickens, and in the last ten years has furnished a covering for many hundred fine springers. The old tree is still healthy and in a fine state of preservation—Mt. Vernon Signal.

Christianity in Fly Time

A FARMER came to the pastor of his congregation and asked that his name be taken off the church books.

"What is the trouble, Brother Jones?" asked the pastor.

"I supposed you were a faithful follower of the Lamb."

"Well, I sorter believed that myself, but there is just no use talkin', a man can't serve the Lord when he has to milk four cows in fly time. After the first heavy frost I'll try this church business again, but just now I'd rather have to sell the cows, give up the church or be a durned hypocrite."

No need for Brother Jones quitting his church or selling his cows. Penny has got the flies beat a mile. Just go right into his drug store and tell him to get you a 25c can of Kresco Dip. take it home, use it as directed on the label, and you can milk your cow in peace and happiness.

It Is Seeking Your Business And Is Prepared To Care For It

For private reasons I will have to give up farm and will sell my place of 230 acres. This is in 1-2 mile of Crab Orchard, adjoining the Fair Grounds and lands of J. W. Guest. It has a brick dwelling of six rooms, hall, porch, and cellar; a frame summer dining room and kitchen attached; a good tenant house, two stock barns, a $1,200 tobacco barn of 8-acres capacity, and all other necessary buildings.

This farm is in a high state of cultivation; 50 acres of river bottom land, fine corn, meadow, or grazing land; 100 acres of upland, sown to blue grass, and is fine for tobacco, corn, wheat and soybeans.

The river bounds it on the east, with two creeks running through the farm, five never-failing springs, and a splendid bored well, of pure limestone water, at the door, which gives an abundance of stock water during the driest seasons, which makes it an ideal stock farm.

This farm can be nicely divided into two farms—about 130 acres with tenant house, and 100 acres with improvements.

Will sell as a whole or in two tracts, to suit purchasers. Liberal terms will be given. Seeding privileges given and full possession January 1st, 1915.

Lime for Agricultural Purposes

The use of lime in different forms on Kentucky soils has been attended with such good results that its use is rapidly on the increase. Stations are being established for supplying the demand. Some of these plants supply natural ground limestone, while others, supply burned lime, hydrated lime, or "agricultural lime."

In order that farmers may purchase lime intelligently, it is necessary for them to understand the nature of the materials offered for their use.

Lime in its various forms is used primarily to correct soil acidity. Raw ground limestone, fresh burned lime, and hydrated lime will all perform this function. Limestone rock is the source of all these forms of lime. If 100 lbs. of pure limestone were thoroughly burned, it would yield 56 pounds of fresh lime. If this 56 pounds of fresh lime were treated with just enough water to completely slake it, it would weigh 74 pounds. These amounts of the different forms would have identical the same value in correcting soil acidity. Stated in another way, 1120 pounds of fresh lime, 1480 pounds of water slaked lime and 2040 pounds of ground limestone are of equal value in correcting soil acidity.

Fresh lime and hydrated lime, after application to the soil, soon take up carbon dioxide (the part lost in burning) and become the same chemical compound, as the original rock from which they were made.

This information will serve as a basis for calculating the relative cost of actual neutralizing power in the various forms of lime offered at different prices.

Hydrated lime can be made by anyone by taking fresh lime and slaking it with water. "Agricultural lime" is generally ground hydrated lime. Fresh burnt lime and hydrated lime must of necessity sell for more per unit of actual neutralizing power than ground limestone, on account of the expense of burning.

Fresh burnt lime and hydrated lime may give better results the first year than ground limestone, but this is because of its caustic effects on the organic matter of the soil, causing a more rapid giving up of nitrogen. Experiments in Maryland and Pennsylvania show that used through a long period of time, the raw ground limestone gives the better results.

Limestone need not be ground as finely as some people recommend. If it is ground to pass a screen of ten meshes per linear inch, it is sufficiently fine. This is about the fineness of coarse corn meal. Screenings, the coarsest of which pass a screen with four meshes to the inch, are quite satisfactory if sold at reasonable price. A large percentage of such screenings consist of fine material. Such screenings are being sold in Kentucky at 30 cents to 75 cents per ton on board cars at the plant. More finely ground limestone of high quality is being sold in the State at $1.00 per ton on board cars at plant.

Ground limestone is calcium carbonate. The value of one ground limestone or calcium carbonate as compared with another depends on the purity of the rock.

Demonstration of Limestone Grinding. There will be a demonstration of machinery suitable for preparing limestone for actual purposes at the Kentucky Experiment Station farm at Lexington during the week beginning Monday, June 22. On Thursday, the 25th and Friday, the 26th of June, prominent speakers will deliver addresses upon soil fertility and the use of lime in agriculture.

The machines which will be demonstrated are portable sizes suitable for the use of individual farmers or small companies. There will be several of the leading types on exhibition, and an opportunity will be given to see the machines in operation, and form some opinion as to the cost of these machines and their output.

Information in regard to this demonstration and literature on the use of ground limestone may be had free of charge by addressing the Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky. GEORGE ROBERTS, Agronomist, Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

Why The Clipper Is for Beckham
(From the Midway Clipper)
The Clipper is for Beckham because it believes in fair play, and in giving a man what is rightly his due.

Everybody knows that Beckham was robbed of the senatorship six years ago by one of the worst political steals that has ever pulled off in Kentucky. He was rightfully nominated, but was betrayed by four Democrats who were controlled by the liquor interests. By every right he should have had no opposition this year.

Another reason for favoring Mr. Beckham is that he stands squarely against the domination of Kentucky by the Liquor Trust. He has done more for temperance legislation in Kentucky, where the fight has been hardest, than any other man, or set of men. For this reason we do not see how any advocate of the temperance cause can be against him.

Mr. Beckham was the first public man of any note in Kentucky to announce for Mr. Wilson for President. While Mr. Stanley and the other Kentucky congressmen were plotting and scheming to prevent the Kentucky delegation from going to the Baltimore convention instructed for Wilson, Mr. Beckham was consistently doing all in his power to have Kentucky lined up for the President. He was the best friend the President had in Kentucky, and if he were in the senate he would be a tower of strength for the administration's policies. As a speaker, Mr. Beckham is calm, dignified, employing none of the claptrap and demagoguery of the cheap politician in an endeavor to make his audiences believe he is something he is not. He believes the Democrats will honor themselves by nominating Mr. Beckham in August. He is in every way capable of worthily representing our great Commonwealth in the Senate. If he is sent there you can depend on his staying there and attending to business.

Child's Labor Law Goes Into Effect

While J. W. Newman, Commissioner of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics, in his preface to a pamphlet, containing the act, promulgates the new child labor law, which goes into effect, June 15 one of the best laws of this nature on the statute books of any State in the Union, many employees consider some of its provisions drastic.

One section reads: "In cities of the first, second and third class, no person under the age of twenty-one years shall be employed, permitted or suffered to work as a messenger for a telegraph, telephone or messenger company in the distribution, transmission or delivery of goods or message before 6 o'clock in the morning or after 9 o'clock in the evening of any day."

Another, which especially affects morning newspapers, reads as follows: "No boy under fourteen years of age shall be employed, permitted or suffered to work at any time in any city of the first, second and third class or in connection with the street occupations of peddling, boot-blackening, the distribution or sale of newspapers, magazines, periodicals or circulars, not in any other occupation pursued in any street or public place."

The act goes on to say, however, that boys between fourteen and sixteen years of age, upon procuring the proper employment certificate from school officials may sell papers between 6 A. M. and 8 P. M. but at not other time. Thus the boys formerly employed by the morning newspapers will in many cases be thrown out of their positions. However, unless the boys comply with the educational requirements—that is, the filing of a school record in the passing of an examination in lieu thereof—they cannot be employed except during vacation time.

Juvenile violators of these sections may be punished by the Juvenile Court and those who furnish the lads articles to sell and continue to do so after being notified that they are violating the law, may be fined from $15 to $100 for each offense.

The various other articles formerly embodied in Section 341-A of the Kentucky Statutes of 1909 are included in the new section. These relate to employment in mills, factories, offices, shops, etc., and contain the regulations employment certificates, school records and care and condition of place of employment.

The act is thorough, but said by many employers to work a hardship because of the difficulty in procuring lads except those under the age set forth, to do the work.

the disease. Once present in the herd it spreads rapidly and results in death of 70 to 90 per cent of the "pigs." The disease is not contagious, but this does not mean that a positive immunity. All infections require a specific anti-body.

The specific toxin, that is, the hog cholera serum, is not sufficient in controlling lock jaw. Mere health does not of itself insure the presence of the development of a specific anti-body for any infectious disease. It has been observed in many herds under perfect care, that, on exposure to specific infection, the animals sicken with characteristic symptoms and on post-mortem reveal characteristic lesions of hog cholera.

The most reliable means of protecting hogs against hog cholera is the use of anti-hog cholera serum at the proper time. Farmers are frequently aware of the protection the State offers in such instances, and not infrequently have received communication indicating that the serum treatment is not understood.

The loss of close to two million dollars in Kentucky last year from this disease warrants a careful study of this disease by every farmer. In order to talk to all parties interested in this subject, a demonstration will be given every Monday morning at the Kentucky Experiment Station, Lexington, for those who wish to familiarize themselves with the use of hog cholera serum.

So heavy have been the demands for the serum, that equipment and buildings have been erected to triple the capacity of the laboratory. An earnest effort is being made by the Kentucky Experiment Station to completely eradicate this disease. With effective regulations controlling infected herds and premises together with the hearty cooperation of the farmers, this can be accomplished. Write for literature on this subject.

Billy Sunday as a Poet

One of the remarkable elements in Billy Sunday's make-up is his imagination—so bold and free and lawless. A sample of his best is his revised version of David McCaughy's paragraph entitled, "The Palace of the Poet." It is an improvement on the original. The evangelist might have been a poet. It reads thus:

"Twenty-two years ago with the holy Spirit as my guide, I entered the wonderful temple called Christianity. I entered at the portico, called Genesis, walked down through the Old Testament Art Gallery where the pictures of Noah, Abraham, Moses, Jacob, Joseph, Isaac and Daniel hung on the walls. I passed into the music room of Psalms where the spirit swept the keyboard of Nature and brought forth the dirge-like wail of the weeping Prophet, Jeremiah, to the grand impassioned strains of Isaiah, until it seemed that every reed and pipe in God's great organ of Nature responded to the musical harp of David, the sweet singer of Israel. I entered the chapel of Ecclesiastes where the voice of the preacher was heard and into the conservatory of Sharon and the Lily of the Valley's sweet, scented spices filled and perfumed my life. I entered the business office of Proverbs, then into the Observatory room of the Prophets where I saw telescopes of various sizes, some pointing to far-off events, but all concentrated upon the bright and morning star which was to rise above the moonlit hills of Judea for our salvation. I entered the audience room of the King of kings and caught a vision of His glory from the standpoint of Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, Peter, Paul, James and Jude penning their epistles.

"I stepped into the Throne of Revelations, where all towered into glittering peaks, and I got a vision of the King sitting upon His throne in all His glory, and I cried:

"All hail the power of Jesus' name,
Let angels prostrate fall,
Bring forth the Royal Diadem,
And crown Him Lord of all."

Copious rains have fallen in various parts of Kentucky to the great advantage of the growing corn. The downfall in Fayette county was almost in the nature of a cloudburst.
